Jail Gang Intelligence & Interview Techniques For Corrections & Law Enforcement

Date: February 10, 2026 (Tuesday) Time: 8:30am - 5:00pm (EST)

Deadline Date to register online: January 7, 2026

Each prisoner and contact in jail is different and the information in correctional facilities is always changing. Being able to effectively gather this information can lead to finding contraband, identifying gang members and affiliations, solving other crimes within the jail, and saving an officer's life. You have to be creative and ingenious while having a simple conversation with an inmate. Learn how to "talk-the-talk" and not overdo it. Know how to control the direction of the conversation without making your contact feel like he or she is being interrogated. Gang members are getting smarter every time they are arrested and incarcerated. Building your gang knowledge will benefit you in identifying who you're dealing with, creating self-confidence, and at the same time, establishing yourself amongst gang members themselves. This eight-hour course is specifically designed to prepare officers to successfully identify gang members, monitor gang activity, effectively gather gang intelligence, and properly conduct successful interviews with hard-core gang members in jail.

This training is for sworn LE officers and Corrections officers only.

Course Topics Include:

- Gang identification and documentation
- Successful introductions and mindset
- Monitoring gang presence and activity
- Gang intelligence gathering
- Working with other law enforcement agencies
- Handling jail informants
- Conducting successful interviews in jail
- Behavioral "norms" and patterns
